

LOGIN REGISTER

HOME NEWS REVIEWS PRODUCTS COMPARE CARS VIDEOS BUYING USED CARS NEW CARS FORUMS COMPETITIONS SUBSCRIBE

You're in - News: Auto Express News

Mini Coyote speed camera locator tested

Email a Friend Print this

- Advertisement -

Search Car Reviews:

Choose a make...

...and a model

Web Auto Express

By Kim Adams

21st November 2008

Safety cameras are big business in the UK – and the devices you can buy to beat them even more so. Keeping up-to-date can be time-consuming, unless you have one of Coyote Systems' locators. Every time it's switched on, it downloads the latest information.

More than 60,000 have been sold in France, and now it's available here. A GPRS modem transmits data between users so when new or mobile cameras are spotted, other subscribers can be told of their location within three seconds at the touch of a button – and the news stays live for up to three hours. A standard GPS database is also included for fixed cameras and historical information.

Audio and visual warnings, including current and maximum speeds, are used. The battery lasts up to 10 hours, and can be recharged from the car or via USB link to a computer. The device is mounted in the cabin with the supplied windscreen cradle and the package includes a three-month subscription.

Social Bookmarks

VAUXHALL'S AUTUMN SALE

From October 3rd to December 2nd

Find out more >

VAUXHALL

Extra Info

In detail - Mini Coyote speed camera locator
 Price: £199.99
 Contact: www.coyotesystems.co.uk
 Maker's claim: "Keep your licence with the world's first real-time GPS speed camera alert system."

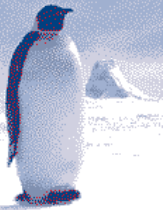

- Advertisement -

TOYOTA

Book your test drive ▶

*Offer available on selected models, terms and conditions apply. Indemnities may be required. Finance subject to status to over 18s only. Click here for more details.

DON'T GET LEFT OUT IN THE COLD

TEACH KIDS TO GROW THEIR OWN